FUELING YOUR JOURNEY ACROSS AFRICA

HFCFUELS.CO.ZA

THE WAY MOST FLEETS BUY DIESEL

A separate account at every depot you fuel at

A transport company holds a direct account with each depot on its routes. Every one of those accounts is opened separately, negotiated separately and invoiced separately.

Each is negotiated on that company's own volume alone. So the price is only ever as good as one fleet can argue for, and there is no way to tell whether it is a good price or not.

At month end the finance team reconciles a stack of statements from a stack of suppliers, against fuel nobody watched go into the tank.

WHAT CHANGES

One account, and the volume of the whole network behind it

HFC Fuels is an open network of fuelling locations across Southern Africa. You open one account with HFC and order diesel at any location on it.

HFC holds the relationship with each location and brings the combined volume of every fleet on the network. A member buys on a volume it could never put on the table alone.

It is one account, one balance and one statement, whether your trucks fuelled in Gauteng, Ndola or Walvis Bay.

01 Open one account

Apply online. One account covers your whole fleet, every driver and every location on the network.

02 Order the diesel

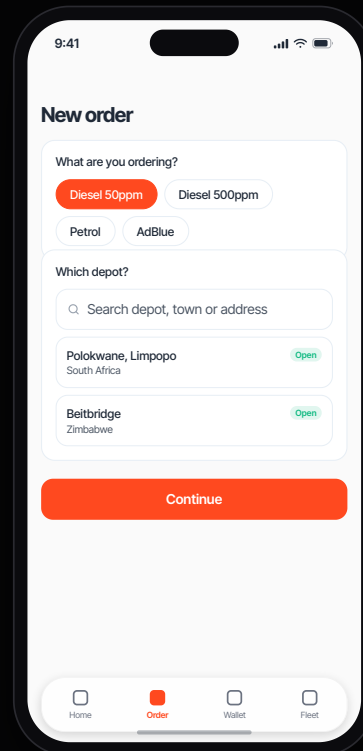

Order a single fill, a bulk load or a whole trip's fuel, at any location on the network. You choose where your truck fuels.

03 The driver fuels against a code

The driver is given a code and the fill is verified at the pump. The litres you pay for are the litres that went into the tank.

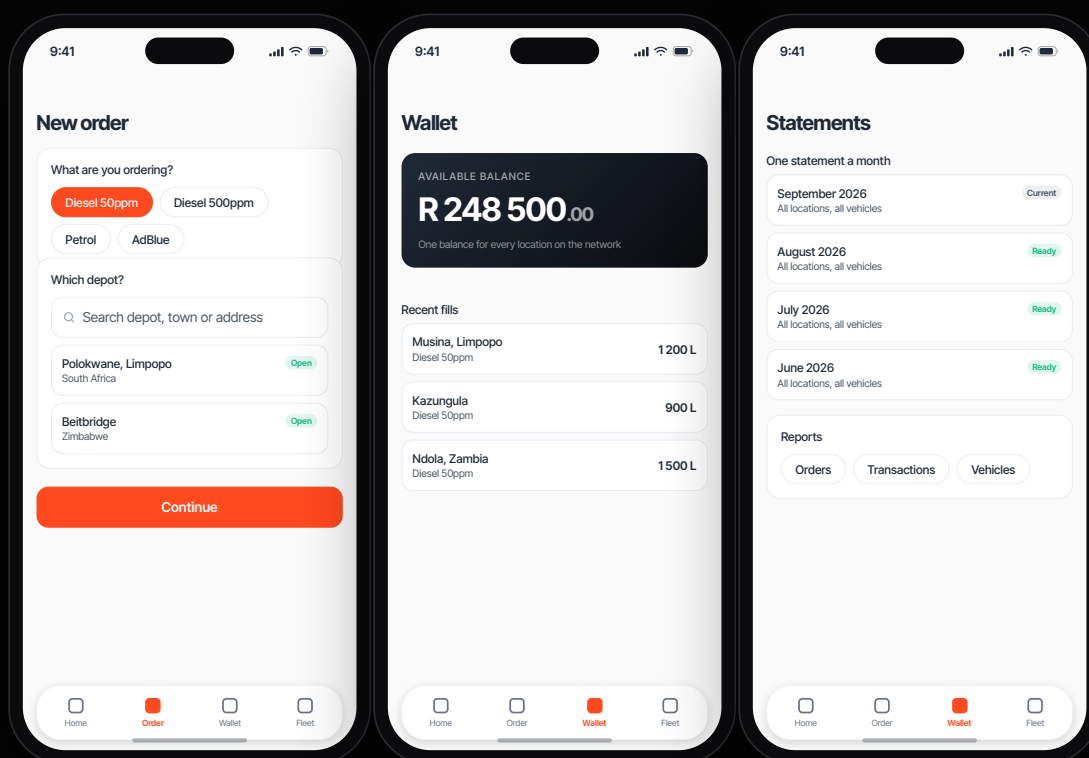

04 One statement

Every order across every location settles through one wallet in Rand, reconciled daily, on one statement at month end.

Your whole fuel operation, on one screen

Your team orders, your drivers fuel, and your finance office reconciles from the same account. No spreadsheet in the middle.

Order

Pick the product, pick the location, send the order.

One balance

Every fill across every location, against one balance in Rand.

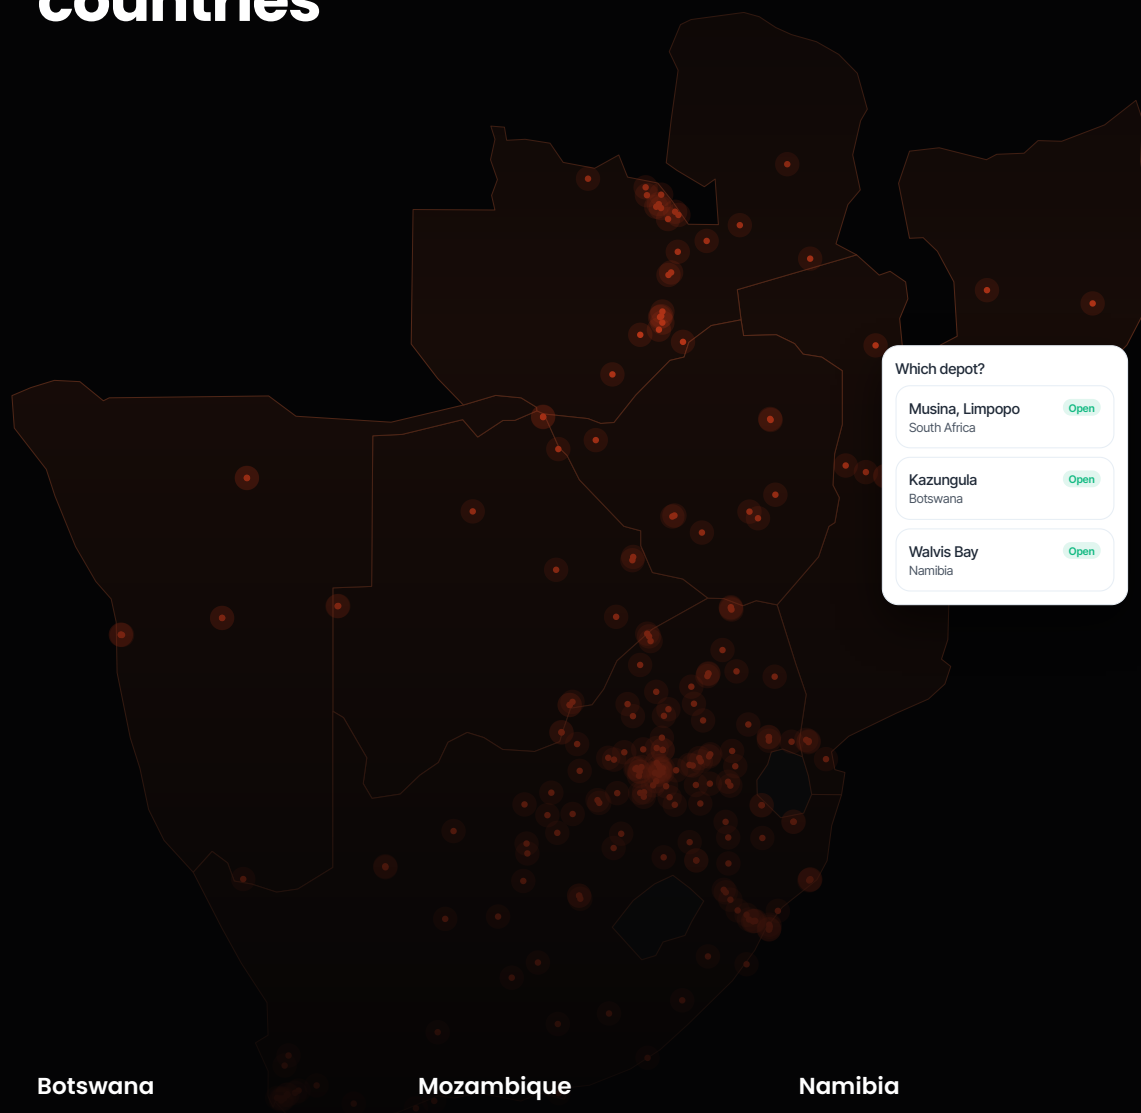

One statement

A month of fuelling on one statement, with the reports behind it.

Web and mobile, on the same account. Your controllers, your finance office and your drivers each see their own view of it.

WHAT YOU GET

Everything below is live today

No fee to join

No subscription, no per-seat fee, no contract.

Order any way you run

Single fills, bulk loads and trip-based orders from one place.

Verified at the pump

A code at the pump ties every litre to a truck, a driver and an order.

Your fleet on record

Vehicles, drivers and orders held against your account, with role-based access for your team.

Cross-border cover

Fuel your trucks in six countries on the same account.

Reports you can hand to finance

Order and transaction reports you can pull yourself, any time.

This profile describes only what is running on the platform now. Anything still in development is deliberately left out of it.

Talk to us about your fleet

Tell us the routes you run and the diesel you move each month, and we will show you what the network covers on those routes.
